

Learning Outcome Essay 2

In a reflective/analytical essay, address each of the following learning outcomes as they pertain to what you have learned throughout your degree program.

1. In your essay, identify the course(s) related to your achievement of the outcome elements listed (some elements may be covered in more than one course).
2. List assignments, projects, group activities that helped you in your learning. If possible, upload a copy of the actual document you submitted for the class.

The first two elements above can and should be presented as bullet points rather than a narrative. A simple one or two sentence introduction to what they are before listing them would suffice.

3. Provide an in-depth narrative (using headings to distinguish which element you are addressing) of what you know about each of the following elements. Describe:
 - How you have analyzed an audience in order to effectively construct messages.
 - How you have used critical thinking skills to evaluate the merit of published sources for support of messages or arguments.
 - How you have questioned and appraised the legal, ethical, and moral aspects of communication in relational, organizational, and mass media contexts.
 - How you have evaluated and debated real-world issues in order to formulate, implement, and assess recommendations and practical solutions for addressing social problems.
 - How you have facilitated group, relational and intercultural interaction to recommend communication solutions.
 - How you have completed communication audits to determine ways to improve leadership, cooperation, conflict management, efficiency, and organizational cohesion.

In your essay, if possible, identify and apply these standards to your profession of choice. How have these standards helped you in your personal and professional career?
